Lenkowsky received his doctorate from Harvard University. He is a regular contributor to the Institute for Educational Affairs, deputy director of the United States Information Agency, internationally-renowned Hudson Institute for public policy research, president of Indiana University. He has also served as president of the Bush Administration. Dr. Lenkowsky was a professor of philanthropic studies and Community Service, a position to which he was appointed by President George W. Bush.

From 2001 to 2003, Dr. Lenkowsky served as CEO of the Corporation for National and Community Service, a position to which he was appointed by President George W. Bush. From 2001 to 2003, he was a professor of philanthropic studies and Community Service, a position to which he was appointed by President George W. Bush. From 2001 to 2003, he was a professor of philanthropic studies and Community Service, a position to which he was appointed by President George W. Bush. From 2001 to 2003, he was a professor of philanthropic studies and Community Service, a position to which he was appointed by President George W. Bush.

Dr. Leslie Sheu is the former VP of the Lilly Family School of Philanthropy at Indiana University. As the world's first and only school of philanthropy, the Lilly Family School has become a focal point for research and teaching of global philanthropy. Dr. Sheu is a leading expert on philanthropic resources in their countries. She is a frequent speaker and provides management and professional development training to corporate philanthropy managers, CEOs of NGOs, social entrepreneurs, and others.

Dr. Levine Daniel holds a BA from American University and an MBA from Ohio State University. His research interests include non-profit organizations, NGO management, organizational capacity, creative placemaking, and corporate social responsibility. She has authored several books and has served on the editorial boards of several academic journals.

Debra London is a founding board member of the Lilly Family School of Philanthropy at Indiana University-Purdue University. She has a background in social entrepreneurship and social innovation. She has worked with several global pharmaceutical companies. Debra has also served as a JDC volunteer with the Jewish Service Corps in Turkey.

Adi Shiling Glazer is the author of several books on philanthropy and social entrepreneurship. She is a frequent speaker and has provided management and professional development training to corporate philanthropy managers, CEOs of NGOs, social entrepreneurs, and others. She has also served as an Academic Consultant at the Lilly Family School of Philanthropy.

The Israel Philanthropy Institute is a research organization that focuses on philanthropy in Israel and worldwide. The institute conducts research and provides training and development programs to non-profit organizations, social entrepreneurs, and others. The institute also provides consultancy services to corporations and foundations.